1. It is reported in civil suit# [REDACTED] filed on October 14, 2015, that on September 04, 2013 at 6659 S. Halsted at 7:49p.m. you kicked [REDACTED] about the face, body, head, stomach and legs;

COPA finds this allegation not sustained. According to G03-02-02, a resister is a person who is uncooperative. Resisters are further subdivided into two categories, passive and active. A passive resister is defined as a person who fails to comply with verbal or other direction. An active resister is defined as a person whose actions attempt to create distance between that person and the member's reach with the intent to avoid physical control and or defeat the arrest. Holding techniques can be used on a passive resister and it can be escalated to striking or slapping to disorient the subject. An assailant is defined as a subject who is using or threatening the imminent use of force against himself or another person. Assailants are categorized into three categories. The first category includes actions that are aggressively offensive without weapons. The second category includes actions likely to cause physical injury. The third category is actions likely to cause death or serious physical injury. When a subject is classified as an assailant, direct mechanical techniques such as punching and kicking and powerful locks. These techniques can be combined with take-downs or pins against the ground or other objects.

According to [REDACTED] on the date of the incident, several officers got out of their vehicle with their weapons drawn and pointed at [REDACTED] was scared so he ran. The officers ordered [REDACTED] to stop, but he ignored their orders. [REDACTED] ran to a gas station and that is where several officers beat and kicked him. By [REDACTED] own admission he was both an active and passive resister. According to Officer [REDACTED] ran from the officers and continued to resist even when officers tried to place him under arrest at the gas station. Officer [REDACTED] documents on his TRR that he used open hand strikes and closed hand strikes to get [REDACTED] to comply, which under the general order are acceptable techniques. Officer [REDACTED] denied kicking [REDACTED] There is no independent evidence to support [REDACTED] assertions that Officer [REDACTED] kicked him, neither is there independent evidence to support Officer [REDACTED] assertions that he did not kick [REDACTED] as such, COPA finds this allegation not sustained.

2. It is reported in civil suit# [REDACTED] filed on October 14, 2015, that on September 04, 2013 at 6659 S. Halsted at 7:49p.m. you punched [REDACTED] about the body, head, and legs;

COPA finds this allegation not sustained. Officer [REDACTED] documents on his TRR that he used open hand strikes and closed hand strikes to get [REDACTED] to comply because he was resisting. According to Officer [REDACTED] was flailing and swinging his arms when he was trying to arrest [REDACTED] at the gas station. While punching and slapping is a technique that can be used when a subject is classified as an assailant. The members punching, and slapping cannot be excessive and must be the appropriate level of force used based on the subject's actions. COPA finds that there is no independent evidence to support [REDACTED] assertions that the strikes used were excessive. [REDACTED] admits to resisting at first, but then states that he finally complied at the gas station. However,

Officer ██████ assertion is that ██████ did not comply and that is why he used hand strikes to get him to comply. There is also no independent evidence to support that Officer ██████ strikes were not excessive and therefore, COPA finds the allegation not sustained.

3. It is reported in civil suit# ██████ filed on October 14, 2015, that on September 04, 2013 at 6659 S. Halsted at 7:49p.m. you punched ██████ on the face;

COPA finds this allegation not sustained. Officer ██████ documents on his TRR that he used open hand strikes and closed hand strikes to get ██████ to comply. ██████ admits to resisting at first, but then states that he finally complied at the gas station. However, Officer ██████ assertion is that ██████ did not comply and that is why he used hand strikes to get him to comply. There is no independent evidence to support that Officer ██████ strikes were excessive, nor is there independent evidence to support that his strikes were not excessive. Further, there is no evidence to prove or disprove that the strikes landed in ██████ face; and therefore, COPA finds the allegation not sustained.

4. It is reported in civil suit# ██████ filed on October 14, 2015, that on September 04, 2013 at 6659 S. Halsted at 7:49p.m. you placed a knee onto ██████ neck;

COPA finds this allegation not sustained. According to Officer ██████ he only used open hand and closed hand strikes to get ██████ to comply. While ██████ asserts that officers beat him, there is no independent evidence to support this assertion, as such, COPA finds the allegation not sustained.

5. It is further alleged that while at the ██████ district station, Officer ██████ denied ██████ medical attention.

COPA finds this allegation not sustained. According to Officer ██████ he asked ██████ if he needed medical attention and ██████ declined medication attention. ██████ stated that he asked twice for medical attention, but he does not state that he asked Officer ██████ for medical attention. With no independent evidence to support ██████ assertion, COPA finds the allegation not sustained.

6. It is further alleged that while at ██████ District Station you placed him in an unsanitary cell with smeared feces and urine on the walls.

COPA finds this allegation not sustained. ██████ states that on the night he was arrested, he was taken back to the district and placed in an unsanitary cell. Officer ██████ denied placing ██████ in an unsanitary cell. Officer ██████ was present the day of ██████ arrest, but he does not recall ██████ he also stated that at no time would a prisoner be placed in an unsanitary cell. Detention Aide ██████ and Detention Aide ██████ were also present the day ██████ was arrested, but they do not recall ██████ and ██████ also stated that a prisoner would not be placed in an unsanitary cell. There is no independent evidence to support ██████ or Officer ██████ assertions, so COPA finds this allegation not sustained.
