II. SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE¹

On October 15, 2019, Mr. filed a complaint with the Civilian Office of Police Accountability (COPA) regarding a traffic stop conducted by Chicago Police. Mr. indicated he was driving his customized 2005 Ford Escape north on Kedzie Avenue, with two passengers, when the officers (now known as Officers Hasan and Martino) began following him for two blocks, pulled him over and searched his vehicle without a valid reason, on October 13.

¹COPA conducted a full and complete investigation of this matter, including the interview of all pertinent civilian and officer witnesses, and the collection and review of digital, documentary, and forensic evidence. As part of COPA's ongoing efforts to increase case closure capacity, certain investigations are summarized more succinctly in a Modified Summary Report of Investigation, pursuant to COPA Guideline Modified Summary Report of Investigation Template and Approvals, effective February 13, 2019.

Mr. asks if he can use his cell phone to record the interaction and Officer Martino does not object. Officer Martino cites the blue light above his license plate as the reason for the traffic stop. The officers then notice the backseat passenger is not wearing a seatbelt and the presence of opened alcohol.

Mr. indicates he did not know they were violations after the officers informed him, as the driver of the vehicle, he was liable. The officers ask Mr. and his passengers to exit the vehicle before Officer Hasan searches the passenger and driver areas of the vehicle.

After performing name checks, Officer Hasan informs Mr. he will be receiving a break and no tickets will be issued. The officers also suggest getting the light fix to prevent future traffic stops and for them to place the unopened alcohol in the trunk area of the vehicle.

III. LEGAL STANDARD

For each Allegation COPA must make one of the following findings:

- 1. Sustained where it is determined the allegation is supported by a preponderance of the evidence;
- 2. Not Sustained where it is determined there is insufficient evidence to prove the allegations by a preponderance of the evidence;
- 3. Unfounded where it is determined by clear and convincing evidence that an allegation is false or not factual; or
- 4. Exonerated where it is determined by clear and convincing evidence that the conduct described in the allegation occurred, but it is lawful and proper.

A preponderance of evidence can be described as evidence indicating that it is more likely than not that the conduct occurred and violated Department policy. See Avery v. State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co., 216 Ill. 2d 100, 191 (2005), (a proposition is proved by a preponderance of the evidence when it has found to be more probably true than not). If the evidence gathered in an investigation establishes that it is more likely that the misconduct occurred, even if by a narrow margin, then the preponderance of the evidence standard is met.

Clear and convincing evidence is a higher standard than a preponderance of the evidence but lower than the "beyond-a-reasonable doubt" standard required to convict a person of a criminal offense. See e.g., People v. Coan, 2016 IL App (2d) 151036 (2016). Clear and Convincing can be defined as a "degree of proof, which, considering all the evidence in the case, produces the firm and abiding belief that it is highly probable that the proposition . . . is true." Id. at \P 28.

IV. ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Officers Hasan and Martino

Approved:

COPA finds Allegation 1, conducted a traffic stop of Mr. without justification, against Officer Hasan EXONERATED. A lawful traffic stop requires "at least [an] articulable and reasonable suspicion that the particular person stopped is breaking the law," including traffic law. United States v. Rodriguez-Escalera, 884 F.3d 661, 667-68 (7th Cir. 2018) (citing Delaware v. Prouse, 440 U.S. 648, 663 (1979)).

Articulable and reasonable suspicion means that the police "must be able to identify some 'particularized and objective basis' for thinking that the person to be stopped is or may be about to engage in unlawful activity," amounting to more than a hunch. United States v. Miranda-Sotolongo, 827 F.3d 663, 666 (7th Cir. 2015) (quoting United States v. Cortez, 449 U.S. 411, 417 (1981)). Police need not meet the higher threshold of probable cause to perform a traffic stop, but if the stop is supported by probable cause, its lawfulness is still evaluated under Terry. Rodriguez v. United States, 135 S. Ct. 1609, 1617-18 (2015). According to Chapter 12, Article 2 of the Illinois Vehicle Code a white light is to be used to illuminate a rear registration plate. Mr. does not dispute the color of the light on the officers' BWC or in his COPA interview. As a result, COPA finds the allegation of conducting the traffic stop of Mr. without justification against Officer Hasan and Martino exonerated.

COPA finds Allegation 2, searched Mr. whicle without justification, against Officer Hasan, EXONERATED. Under the "automobile exception" to the search warrant requirement, "law enforcement officers may undertake a warrantless search of a vehicle if there is probable cause to believe that the automobile contains evidence of criminal activity that the officers are entitled to seize." People v. James, 163 Ill. 2d 302, 312 (Ill. 1994) (citing Carroll v. United States, 267 U.S. 132 (1925)). "When officers have such probable cause, the search may extend to 'all parts of the vehicle in which contraband or evidence could be concealed, including closed compartments, containers, packages, and trunks." United States v. Richards, 719 F.3d 746, 754 (7th Cir. 2013) (citing United States v. Williams, 627 F.3d 247, 251 (7th Cir. 2010)). Upon approaching the vehicle Officer Hasan met the burden to search the vehicle when he observed the open alcohol in the vehicle, a clear violation of the law. Thus, the allegation of searching Mr. vehicle without justification is exonerated.
